

Angela Mackey, MABTS, BSN, RN

Author, Podcaster, Speaker, Bible Teacher

Angela Mackey is a child of God who longs to make much of her savior. As a lover of God's Word, she earned a master's in biblical and theological studies. She is an author, podcaster, and speaker through those platforms she encourages people to rethink their thinking in light of scripture that they may live transformed. Angela is also a nurse and part of the Maxwell Certified Leadership Team. Angela lives in Arkansas with her family and their dogs.

Expertise

- Infertility/Pregnancy loss / Infertility Treatments
- Lamenting: How to Overcome the Darkness
- Finding Joy in all Circumstances
- How to Live a Life of Worship
- Renewing Our Minds to Live Transformed
- Loving Well When We Disagree

Credentials

- Masters of Arts in Biblical and Theological Studies
- Podcast Host of Life as Worship
- Author of a book, contributor to two devotionals and a bible study coming in late 2025
- Retreat, conference breakout, and event speaker
- Podcast and Radio show guest
- Black Belt in Kuk Sool Won Martial Arts
- Former Director of Development private school
- Former Leadership Teacher - high school
- Sunday School teacher over two decades

Download

- Angela's Headshot
- High-resolution book cover
- "Think About Such Things"
free 9-day devotional

Availability

- Central Time Zone
- Available by Zoom, video call, and phone 479-420-4136
- Closest Media Markets: Fort Smith-Fayetteville-Springdale-Rogers

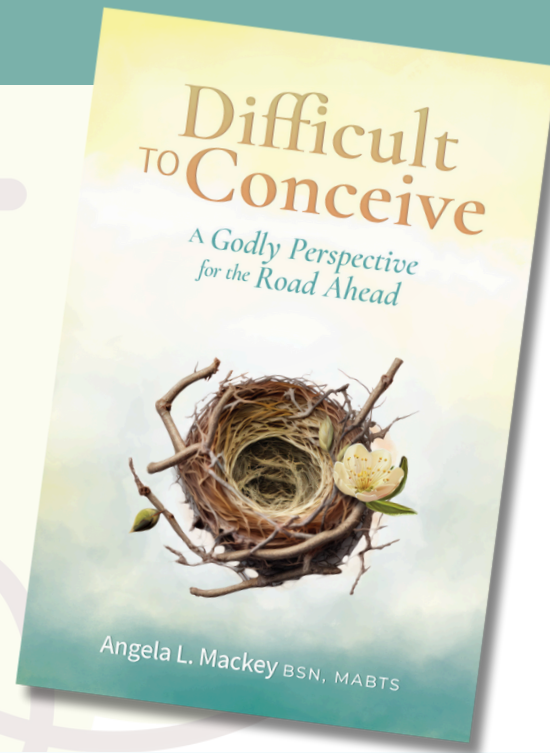

TO BOOK ANGELA, CONTACT: ANGELA@RETHINKINGMYTHINKING.COM

Difficult to Conceive

A Godly Perspective for the Road Ahead

When Angela Mackey lost not only two babies in early pregnancy, but also her fallopian tubes, she experienced some of the darkest days of her life. In her search for answers, God reached out to her through His Word, and she began to see her infertility struggle with a renewed mind.

More than a compelling chronicle of Angela's struggle with infertility, Difficult to Conceive is like coming to a friend who gets your pain, grieves with you, and gently points you to the One who can heal your heart. It illuminates godly principles and is rooted in Scripture so you can discover sound tools that will help you and your spouse forge a path through infertility and into a deeper relationship with God.

Relevance

- 1 in 6 couples worldwide experience infertility at some point according to the WHO
- Both depression and anxiety are higher in couples experiencing infertility
- Many of these couples are also dealing with the grief of either pregnancy loss or infant loss
- Infertility leads to deep spiritual questions
- Fertility treatments bring moral and spiritual issues

Author Perspective

- Angela experienced secondary infertility
- She was certain as a young person that infertility treatments were not for Christians and yet she and her husband used IVF to grow their family
- She wrestled with God over her infertility
- While infertility was a dark season Angela came out with a deeper relationship with God

Suggested Questions

1. Going through infertility affects relationships in many ways. What was your experience?
2. What do you think keeps women experiencing the pain of infertility from reaching out to God first?
3. Your website is titled Rethinking My Thinking. How does Scripture renew minds and correct thinking on infertility?
4. Were you surprised at the many mentions of women in the Bible who had difficulty conceiving? Which woman's story resonates with you?
5. How do you feel God uses suffering in our lives? What's the purpose?
6. What is the one thing you want to say to that woman who is listening who is experiencing infertility?

TO BOOK ANGELA, CONTACT: ANGELA@RETHINKINGMYTHINKING.COM